Large Hedgehog spotted in JamboRí Village

One of the biggest topics of conversation in The JamboRí Village is what to call the big beige tent. Officially, it's 'The Marquee', but word on the street is that all of the cool kids (and some other people too) are calling it the "Hedgehog Tent".

There's lots to do in the Village. Lots. You can make woggles at the pyrography tent. (Ed: Check how to spell 'pirografy') You can walk down memory lane in Rí-member, the Scout museum. Or visit the media tent to share your stories, photos and videos from JamboRí.

Cadhla (12) 55th Cork, Gotham loves "the way they organise activities for us to do in our 2 hours free time after dinner".

She's sampled some of the additional nutritionals available at the food outlets and this the food there "is brilliant!".

Mary (15) 4th Kildare, also from Gotham, said "there's a great atmosphere, everyone's very happy and excited for things to come."

Eoin (17) 32nd Limerick, Panem, Mocking Jays is "absolutely loving the tunes!" "Everyone's up and dancing. The segways are brilliant and the bubble balls are unreal."

Eoin also thinks the people from other contingents are "really getting into the songs, which is great to see"

Trish (21+) Sub Camp Chief, Hogsmeade told us "Everyone seems to be enjoying everything that's going on."

"We're really getting into the theme and it's brilliant that the Scouts are getting into it too."

Trish also said something about "the best Sub Camp ever", but we weren't sure which one she was referring to.

Matthew (13) 8th Waterford, Oz know's what's what. "The nightlife is amazing here, if you are not down at the Hedgehog tent in the JamboRí Village, you're doing something wrong!"

Be like Mathew.

Listening Ír Overheard on Camp

"Accidental raindance performed on stage in JamboRí Village"

- Eoghan C.

"Stevo gave him such an icy cold glare, that he had to take a 40 min hot shower"

- Pat O.

"In west Balbriggan, born and raised ... started makin' trouble in Pinewood"

- Jimmy McF

"I'm kind of a big deal"

-David S.

"I heard my leader sleep-shouting instructions 'Put that tent up!'"

An English Man, in a bit of a Jam

My name is Daniel Weston.

This is my first Jamboree as a 'Scouter'. I've been on a couple of Jamborees in the UK when I was a 'Scout Leader', and an uncountable number of camps across both associations.

One thing that you don't realise until you're on a camp in rural Ireland is just how wet it can get. (Ed. = but it's been raining less than 24hours!)

There is a hosepipe ban across the entire island, but yesterday, the heavens opened and barely stopped all night and all morning, but at least it's not windy. (yet)

The idea of Scouting and Baden-Powell's experimental camp of over 110 years ago still holds today.

It brings people of all backgrounds, genders, and belief systems together.

Scouting enables the young people (and the adults) to gain new skills and meet people who are quite like them in some ways, and quite different from them in others. And that is what is happening here, in 2018 while Scouting Ireland hosts its JamboRí here (in the rain).

Walking across the site and processing photos for the social media sites and Rí... Raw!, it is clear that everyone on site is enjoying themselves.

The programme zones are busy with new and exciting activities, including backwoods cooking, bottle rockets and Quidditch.

As the rain continues and the weather is the traditional style that the welcoming people of Dan, an IT type is equally as pixellated in real life.

Ireland are used to, the mood can change on a camp of this size.

So remember we're all in Scouting together, weather (sic) it's your first, or your 101st camp, we're all in this boat together.

And being Scouts, we're prepared for this.

Letters to Rawrí

Hey Roro,

Me and the guys were wondering what Sub Camp you're in?

Rawrí,

- Baz, Oz

We're all having a great time at Roverway,

Baz,

First up, It's Rawrí.

Second. That information is need-to-know. But needless to say. Our site is not too far from the tap without the house pipe.

Just wanted to let you know,

- Gary G, Roverway

Bring pringles!

-Rawrí

Garry,

It's spelled Rí... Raw!, not "Roverway".

But thanks for the compliment.

Rawrí,

-Rawrí

Further to our letter dated 14 July, your last Xbox Live Gold Account invoice is now outstanding.

Rawrí,

Which shower is the best shower on site?

Please pay this bill immediately.

-Maria, Gotham

-Microsoft Accounts Recievable, Redmond WA

Maria,

There was quite a big shower last night.

I'm here all week.

Aw hey guys,

-Rawrí

No one's every called me 'outstanding' before. That's really nice of you.

Rawrí,

Have you got your Krypt-On yet?

What's Bill's surname?

-Rawrí

-Damien O'B, Krypton

Damo,

No.

- Rawrí
